

Part 3: Accountability

Icebreakers

- If you have kids or a spouse, you more than likely have been asked the question, “Why?” Can you think of a day or share an instance where it seemed like you were asked that question over and over and over.

Discussion Questions

1. If you go to the doctor’s office or somewhere else and have to wait, is there something specific you do while you wait? Read a book, scroll endlessly on your phone, etc.
2. In today’s scriptures, we see where servants must wait on their Master’s return. What is the absolute worst part of waiting? Is there a best part?
3. Jeremy suggested three different responses to waiting while your master is away: do nothing, use it for yourself or use it for the master. And then asked the question in which we should all consider: “What are you doing with what (gifts, talents, resources, etc.) you have been given?”
4. How can we as a group help each other take the next steps necessary to be accountable and responsible in our time of waiting for the Master’s return?

Next Steps & Prayer Requests

- Consider your upcoming week. You have been given opportunities. You choose how you will use them. You will be held accountable.
